SurveyLogix Security Policy

When you publish your survey on our server, we will provide you with a unique URL to display your survey. Sparklit will not provide this URL to any other person or entity, but will provide your survey to any web browser requesting your unique URL. Sparklit has the right to review your survey contents for violations of our Terms of Use. If Sparklit determines your survey is in violation of our Terms of Use we will attempt to contact you and reserve the right to delete your survey and results from our systems.

Sparklit will not attempt to read your survey results at any time unless explicitly instructed to do so by you. We do not own the contents of the data for your survey. Sparklit will only have access to your surveys for purposes of backup and troubleshooting. When Sparklit receives your survey results, we will store them in a secure location. We will only allow your survey results to be downloaded directly into your desktop software. Sparklit has extensive security measures in place to protect your results while stored on our servers and we will prosecute any attempt to access this information without authorization.
